

Visa Guidance for Content Creation in Bali

3-month stay · June–September 2026 · South African content creator

Dear Marc,

Thank you for the detail you shared — it allows us to give you a precise answer based on the actual Indonesian immigration regulation (the 2025 visa classification decree, cited verbatim in this document), not generic guidance. We would rather be straight with you than recommend the wrong route.

First: clearing one misconception

▲ THE C7 VISA IS THE WRONG CATEGORY

The C7 / C7C is the Arts & Culture visit visa (performances, cultural skills, demonstrations). It does not match travel / lifestyle / fitness content creation, so we will not place you under a category that does not reflect your actual activity — that creates exposure for you, not protection.

The honest answer: today there is no clean visa for your exact profile

We will not sell you the wrong permit to close a deal. Here is the real picture for a global freelance creator — someone who earns from scattered brand deals, AdSense and collaborations rather than from one fixed employer:

→ THE CATEGORY BUILT FOR YOU IS THE C5A — BUT IT IS NOT OPERATIONAL

Indonesia did create a dedicated visa for exactly your case: the C5A "Content Creator" visit visa. The problem is that it exists only on paper — it is not selectable on the eVisa portal, has no implementing guidance, and its detail page has read "Data Belum Tersedia" for over 11 months. Right now it cannot be applied for, and there is no firm timeline.

× THE E33G "REMOTE WORKER" VISA IS NOT YOUR CATEGORY

Some agencies will offer you the E33G. Be careful: the regulation requires a genuine employment / service contract with a company based outside Indonesia (a "hubungan kerja"). It is built for the person who works remotely for one defined foreign employer — not for a global influencer living on assorted brand deals. This is precisely why the government created the C5A as a separate category. Forcing your profile onto an E33G is a stretch, not a clean fit.

Your real options today

Option	What it means	Reality
1. Wait for the C5A	The visa actually designed for you. Monitor for it becoming operational.	No firm timeline — estimates 3–6 months, uncertain.
2. Visit as a tourist, do not monetise in Indonesia	Come on a tourist visa, enjoy Bali, post as a private traveller.	No barter, no brand work tied to Indonesian businesses. Limits what you came to do.
3. Build a real structure	If your income has a contractable backbone, or you want an ongoing presence.	Worth assessing case-by-case — this is the conversation below.

✗ ONE THING IS ILLEGAL ON EVERY VISA: BARTER WITH BALI BUSINESSES

Collaborating with Bali hotels, resorts or gyms in exchange for accommodation, services or exposure is treated by law as work for an Indonesian beneficiary — even with no money involved. "I'm not getting paid" is not a defence. This is exactly what the "Operasi Dharma Dewata" task force has been deporting foreigners for since April 2026 (62 detained in the first three weeks, influencers included), with re-entry bans of 5 years, 10 years, or life. Whatever route you take, this stays off the table.

⚠ A WORD OF CAUTION ON THE "EASY E33G" PITCH

If another agency tells you the E33G is a simple yes for an influencer, ask them to show you the foreign employment contract the regulation requires. A genuine, contractable relationship with a foreign company can sometimes qualify — but a loose set of brand deals usually does not, and a forced application is a risk we will not put your name on.

What we propose

A short consultation. We will look at how your income is actually structured — whether any part of it is contractable enough to open a legitimate route — and we will keep you informed the moment the C5A becomes applicable. Either way, you get the honest answer, not the convenient one.

Tell us how your brand work is invoiced and we will map the realistic options, with cost and timeline, in writing.

Warm regards,

Preliminary guidance based on Indonesian immigration regulation in force as of 31 May 2026 (Kepmen M.IP-08.GR.01.01/2025; Permenkumham 11/2024 Pasal 63 for E33G; PP 40/2023 & PP 63/2023). Not a binding quote or legal opinion. The C5A "Content Creator" visit visa is legally classified but not operational as of this date. The E33G "Remote Worker" KITAS requires a documented employment/service contract with a company based outside Indonesia.
